"LORD RENFREW" VISITS U.S.

PRINCE AND PRESIDENT

SAILING ON SATURDAY

ARRANGEMENTS FOR TRIP.

(Reuter's American Service.)

WASHINGTON, August 20.

The State Department, in announcing the arrangements for the Prince of Wales' visit, to which, it is understood, His Highness has assented, outlines the following programme:

The Prince of Wales is due to arrive in New York on August 29. He will proceed, after arrival, to Long Island. In the evening, he will take the train for Washington, which he should reach next morning.

He will pay a visit to President Calvin Coolidge and return to Long Island the next day, where he will remain until September 13.

It is understood the visit to Washington will be considered quasi-official, as the Prince is coming, in his official capacity, to pay his respects to the President.

TRAVELS AS "LORD RENFREW"

A London Message by last mail reads: The 52,022 tons Cunarder "Berengaria," one of Britain's largest liners, will have Lord Renfrew visit to the United States and to his ranch in Canada next month—among her passengers when she leaves Southampton for Cherbourg and New York on August 23.

He will travel as an ordinary first-class passenger—and will occupy the Imperial suite once occupied by the Kaiser when the vessel was the German liner "Imperator."

The suite consists of six apartments, with a verandah gay with pink roses and a dainty sitting-room with walls of polished sycamore and pale green leather chairs. By special request of the royal passenger the suite is to be unaltered for his journey.

REVOLT IN BRAZIL

REBEL STEAMER SUNK

BUENOS AIRES, August 20.

The Brazilian Federal troops, stationed on the Parana River, have sunk a steamer carrying rebel forces, after heavy firing. Many rebels were drowned.

Note: A New York message of August 18 read: Official confirmation is forthcoming as to an outbreak in Amazonas, which the Brazilian Foreign Office states concerns naval units on the Amazon. Three vessels have been despatched to quell the uprising. The message adds that the mutiny is unimportant.

PRINCESS IN RAGS

STORY OF MAYFAIR.

London, July 9.—The story of a Russian Princess who lived and died in squalid conditions in Mayfair was told to the Westminster Coroner yesterday at an inquest on Sylvia Pearson, 62, wife of Edward Pearson, an old-age pensioner, and lately living in one room at 7, Little Grosvenor street, Mayfair.

Mrs. Edith Kent, landlady, said the couple had lodged with her for 15 years. The man was 64. They paid for a week out of which six was owing.

In addition to the man's pension they received £3 a month, and had many friends. Mrs. Pearson was very poor, but was known as Princess Olga.

The Coroner (Mr. Justice Oddie) said she was a victim of the world?—Yes, they always had their door barred up. I could never get in.

Mrs. Kent added that when she gave the couple food the woman would open the door just far enough to take it in. The man had not been out for twelve years. She thought he was an Englishman, but she had not seen him for twelve years until Friday morning, when the door was open a little—an unusual thing.

The Princess, who was found dead in bed on Saturday morning, had never had her clothes off for twelve years and was practically in rags. Her body, she was very dirty.

Dr. J. A. West said that death was due to cancer of the stomach. The sergeant said the man was in the room 40 years. The Princess was a victim of the world?—Yes, they always had their door barred up. I could never get in.

MINOR COUNTIES LEAD

TEAM FOR AUSTRALIA

(Reuter's Service.)

LONDON, August 20.

At Warwick to-day, the match between the South Africans and the Minor Counties, the latter batted first.

The weather was fine, but the attendance small. The Minor Counties scored 196, Pegler taking 5 wickets for 45.

When stumps were drawn, the South Africans had lost 9 wickets for 103.

THE AUSTRALIAN TOUR. In addition to those invited to make the trip to Australia in the Autumn, invitations have now been issued to J. B. Hobbs (Surrey), H. Howell (Warwickshire), and W. W. Whysall (Notts) who will act as reserve wicket-keeper.

Eliminating Mr. C. H. Gibson (Sussex), whose inability to take the trip was announced in a cable yesterday, the probable team, with the approximate age of each man, follows:—

Mr. A. E. R. Gilligan, (30).....(Surrey).
Mr. J. W. H. Topley, (42).....(Essex).
Mr. J. L. Bryan, (28).....(Kent).
Mr. A. P. F. Chapman, (24).....(Berks).
A. Sandham, (34).....(Surrey).
H. Strudwick, (44).....(Surrey).
R. Tyldesley, (26).....(Lancashire).
M. W. Tate, (29).....(Sussex).
H. Hendren, (33).....(Middlesex).
H. Sutcliffe, (39).....(Yorkshire).
A. P. Freeman, (37).....(Kent).
R. Kilner, (34).....(Yorkshire).
J. W. Hearne, (43).....(Middlesex).
F. E. Woolley, (37).....(Kent).
J. B. Hobbs, (42).....(Surrey).
H. Howell, (34).....(Warwick).
W. W. Whysall, (37).....(Notts).

LEAGUE OF NATIONS

FRENCH AND NEXT SITTING.

(Reuter's Service.)

PARIS, August 20.

Indicating the importance the French Government attaches to the forthcoming discussions at the Assembly of the League of Nations at Geneva, it is reliably stated that M. Briand has consented to join the delegation.

It is understood M. Herriot does not propose to attend the opening, preferring to arrive after the preliminaries have been concluded. So far no arrangements have been made for Mr. MacDonald to break his journey at Paris in order to see M. Herriot. It is, therefore, supposed that the Premiers will travel to Switzerland independently.

SUFFRAGETTE ECHO

DEATH OF FAMOUS RACEHORSE.

A London message of August 6, reads:—Tracery, the winner of the 1912 St. Leger, who was sold for the record sum of £55,000 and returned from the Argentine last year, died at Cobham stud yesterday.

It will be recalled that in 1913 Tracery was the victim of a Suffragette outrage at Ascot where he was brought down in the Gold Cup race, which was won by Prince Palatine.

Minister Indignity, Fathomroad S.W.

The coroner said the woman appeared to have been a Russian aristocrat, who had been living in circumstances too horrible to describe. A verdict of Death from Natural Causes was recorded.

A TIGER.

LION-TIGER HYBRID AT ZOO.

An adult male "tiger" or lion-tiger hybrid, bred at Nawangan by Lieutenant-Colonel the Maharaja Jam Sahab (Prince Rājā Sahab) and presented by him to the Zoological Society, is now on exhibition in the large outer den of the Lion-house nearest the elephant ride. It was brought from Bombay to London by S. S. "Lahore," arriving in the docks early one Saturday morning and reached the Gardens by motor before noon.

The male parent was an African lion, the female a tigress, and the "tiger" (no doubt it would have been called a "tiger" if the father had been a tiger) is about three years old. It is a healthy and active creature, graceful in its movements, and without the odd appearance of crosses; so that it deserves exhibition on its own merits, apart from its zoological interest. It stands high, being nearly 4 feet at the centre of the arched back, and has the restless gait of a menagerie-bred animal, but seems healthy and reasonably tame.

Although crosses in the second generation are known to follow laws from which some of their characters may be predicted, the exact nature of which cannot be predicted. The "tiger" makes the curious snuffling noise of a tiger. The general ground colour is tawny, with the under parts and inner sides of the legs nearly white. There is a "watermark" of stripes not much darker than the tawny hair visible only in good light over the body, but conspicuous on the legs. These bear no resemblance to the spots usually seen on young lions, but are definitely striped like the markings on tigers, in hoops round the body and in broken rings round the legs and towards the tip of the tail. The tail is long and slender, but ends in a large lion-like tuft of black hair. There is a small mane on the top of the neck, and a tiger-like beard round the chin. The insides of the ears are black, with a large white area as in tigers. The head is rather long and narrow, and the limbs, long in proportion to the body, are more like those of a tiger.

Hybrids are fairly common amongst the large carnivores, although they are not known to occur in nature. Lion-tiger hybrids have been bred occasionally in Indian menageries, and Hagenbeck has bred them at Hamburg; one of his successes being mounted in the museum at Amsterdam. So far as can be ascertained, no living lion-tiger hybrid has ever been in London before, but in 1908 a dealer placed on deposit in the Zoo a strange animal (in which the blood of lion, leopard, and jaguar were stated to be mingled). But the history was obscure and the animal itself unattractive, so that the Society did not purchase it. There is no experience of the fertility of lion-tiger hybrids, but crosses between polar and brown bears have been back with brown bears. The external pattern and appearance are useful guides to the affinities of animals, and the lion and tiger are very closely allied. It is to be hoped that the male "tiger" will live long enough to make an attempt at breeding him.

Words With Histories.

When a housewife asks whether the goods she is buying are cotton or woollen, she little thinks that originally they were one and the same, for it was to a woollen fabric made in Bristol that the name "Bristol cotton" was first applied. Bristol used to be the seaport of the then seat of the woollen trade, the West of England, and "Bristol cotton" a striped cloth with a long nap which could be re-shorn when the garment got shabby, was woven at Bridgewater and Taunton. When the white vegetable wool began to come from the Southern States of America its common name was derived from this fabric. The word "blanket" has a peculiar origin. In early times family names often arose from the bearer's occupation, and for generations a family named Blanket had been in the woollen trade and had manufactured white cloth. It is probable that this trade gave them their name from "Blanc" (white), but it was this family which invented the comfortable bed-covering, and their new products were referred to as blankets.

Measuring Rain.

A rain gauge consists of a small metal cylinder, the lid of which is in the form of a funnel with a specified diameter. Inside the cylinder is a glass vessel for collecting the rain. The rim of the funnel is usually made of brass, while the rest of the contrivance is of copper japanned metal, which serves as a protection against rust. Various types of rain gauges are in use at the present time. Some have a diameter of eight inches and contain a metal bucket, from which the rain is actually measured; others are five inches in diameter and contain a graduated glass vessel, from which the water is poured into another more finely graduated bottle. An ingenious invention for measuring rain is one in which rain from an ordinary receiver passes to a cylinder fitted with a float. To this float is attached a lever, which raises and lowers a sliding pen. The latter works on a revolving drum. When one inch of rain has been collected the cylinder automatically empties itself, and the readings begin again at zero.

Mirror Magic.

The cult of the mirror is easily one of the oldest in the world. We can hardly believe that there was ever a time when a charming face went wholly unmirrored, however primitive the medium of reflection had to be. Eve gazed entranced at her own image reflected in a glassy pool; and we know how, long before the invention of glass, the women of old Egypt, Greece, and Rome had their hand-mirrors of polished metal—buried discs of bronze or silver set in a more or less decorated frame. Some of these ancient mirrors, employed as they were in the service of beauty, were things of beauty in themselves. They had a kind of sacred character, too, as symbols of the goddess of beauty, Venus Aphrodite, to whom their fair owners often dedicated them in the naive hope that the goddess would impart to the faces they reflected something of her own matchless loveliness and fadeless youth. We need be no doubt that the women of those days, valued their personal charm, and spent as much care on preserving it as ever women do now!

Every old mirror is a thing of memories. What a throng of shadowy ghosts we might see in the metal mirrors taken from Egyptian tombs, or in the palace mirrors at Holyrood and Versailles, or in that curious old looking-glass shown in the museum at Brighton and said to have belonged to Nell Gwynne!—Perhaps—the old superstition that it is unlucky to break a mirror is not so very ridiculous after all. So much of ourselves seems to pass into a mirror.

The Handy Man.

It is a tradition of the Navy that a sailor always rises to the occasion, and Jack Tar's abilities as a handy man have become proverbial. About the year 1755 the whole of England was amused by the way in which a naval officer overcame the difficulties placed in his way by the authorities of the day. This enterprising officer was Captain the Honourable William Montague, who was known throughout the Navy by the name of "Mad Montague," from the pranks in which he indulged. The ship under his command, was at Portsmouth, and he applied for leave to proceed to London. This was refused, but as a compromise, he was told that he might proceed from his ship as far as his barge could take him. Montague did not want to give up his jaunt to town, so he had his barge mounted upon wheels. After attaching horses to the outfit, he proceeded to row his way from Portsmouth to London, with the crew of the barge complete. Tradition does not say whether Mad Montague was brought to task for his escapade, but the sight of the barge being towed along the highway must have caused some sensation.

EGYPT'S PROGRESS.

SIR VALENTINE CHIROL IN PROPHETIC MOOD.

Chicago, July 4.—Encouraged by their newly gained independence the Egyptians have become more of a nation than would have been believed possible half a century ago. Sir Valentine Chirol, eminent English authority on Near Eastern affairs, declared in the third of his addresses before the Institute of International Politics at the University of Chicago.

After pointing out the disturbing features of the Egyptian situation, Sir Valentine dwelt on the brighter aspect of their situation which he said showed that "nationalism has not been a vain word with them, for it has drawn the Egyptians together as never before with a unity of the Mohammedan majority and Christian minority of the population." He added:

Though they may seem to us to be trying to run before they can walk, careful of the pitfalls which their adventure as an independent and sovereign country is beset, they are, at any rate, looking forward and not back to a mythical past. They base their attempt to govern themselves on a principle which the Occident cannot deny, namely, that it is through freedom only that nations can in the long run learn to govern themselves.

Among the less favourable features of the Egyptian situation the speaker saw that of religious intolerance among the masses. While the Egyptians have gained more than a veneer of Western civilization, he said, they are still swayed at times by sudden gusts of Muhammadan fanaticism which may endanger peace and order.

RELIGIOUS INTOLERANCE.

The great Egyptian university of El Azhar, still steeped in Muhammadan medievalism, turns out every year a larger number of students, he explained, than any of the modern Government colleges. Sir Valentine added:

El Azhar has sent out to the Muhammadans all over the world an invitation for a conference to be held next year on the future of the Caliphate. Considering what are King Fusa's idiosyncrasies it would be the crowning paradox if the land of paradoxes if he were chosen as the successor to the Turkish Caliph whom the men of Angora have dethroned.

Whilst it would bring the Caliphate into much closer contact than it ever was at Constantinople with the modern Occident, it might also chiefly serve to strengthen the reactionary forces in Egypt and imperil the equilibrium, none too stable already, between the Occident and the Orient which the more progressive Egyptians claim to have achieved.

Sir Valentine described the anomalous situation of Egypt

G. B. S' BREAK.

LATEST FAD OF NOTED WRITER.

London, July 7.—Everyone to get bread free is one of George Bernard Shaw's ideals for Great Britain in the future. This wayward genius has been developing this—among other less startling socialist prophecies at the parliamentary election now proceeding at London, where he has been careful to explain however, that it is only his own "private particular fad" and that neither the Labour Party nor the particular Labour candidate he is championing is in any way committed to it.

In a characteristically whimsical speech at that centre on Saturday, Mr. Shaw said: "At first people would come with sacks and perambulators and there would be waste, but the waste would cease when it was realized that there would always be free bread, and then the people would only take what they needed." This might be Communism, he added, but was not water already commuted?

In London, the seat of the Liberal Party, the Conservatives, by both Labour and Liberal candidates, each hoping, if not of success, at least of showing a swing over of votes.

The lowest contest is not the only one of its kind now proceeding to fill accidental vacancies which have occurred since the last general election. Another is in the Holland-with-Boston division of Lincolnshire, where Labour was last in possession, and which it now hopes to increase its majority upon the record of what it has done in office.

The result of these contests may affect the date when Labour will make its long-discussed appeal to the country. In this connection, parliamentary experts begin to recall the well-worn saying that the longer a government remains in office the more its prestige declines, as a reason—in view of the seven defeats the Government has already suffered this year—for not taking very seriously the advertised ministerial explanations of measuring the remainder of their tenure by years.

which is recognized as a free and sovereign state, but at the same time serves as an important British military aviation base for the protection of the Suez Canal. In addition, he said, the whole economic life of the country is controlled by foreigners, not only of chiefly Englishmen, but French, Italians, Greeks, and even Germans and Austrians, who are returning, Egyptians, he explained, have become efficient administrators and adepts at political arts, but they have kept aloof from the higher walks of commerce, industry and finance.

With their independence, the Egyptians, led by Zaghlul Pasha, Prime Minister, appear unhappily to have resolved to place in the forefront of Egyptian demands the very worst one of all, namely, the recovery of Egypt's full rights of sovereignty over the Sudan. Sir Valentine said:

For on the same principle of self-determination which the Egyptians have based their claim to independence, the people of the Sudan have the right to reject Egyptian rule and do emphatically reject it.

In recognition of Egypt's financial and military contribution to the conquest of the Sudan, the Egyptian flag has been flown side by side with the British flag as a symbol of joint sovereignty; but the administration of the country has been wholly in British hands and has restored to the country a marvellous degree of prosperity when one remembers that under the barbarous despotism of its former ruler its population had been reduced in 15 years from 8,000,000 to a little over 2,000,000.

All the Egyptians can rightfully demand is that nothing shall be done in the Sudan to curtail the flow of water from the Blue and White Nile on which Egyptian irrigation depends. For this, ample guarantees will not be refused them. But England cannot consent to hand over the Sudanese to the Egyptians. Unless Egypt is prepared to yield on that point it is difficult to see how Zaghlul can hope to succeed in the negotiations which he is himself conducting over to London to conduct, and if these negotiations break down one does not know where to look for the possibility of an accommodation, which many patriotic Egyptians and sensible Englishmen alike admit the need.

With the relaxation of British control, despotism and corruption never wholly eradicated again the republic services, and the mere withdrawal of the European experts' hands from the administration of the state railways has already caused general alarm. The harm done the rising generation by the introduction of political agitators into schools and colleges cannot be easily repaired. The machinery of parliamentary government, even if an Egyptian might be so popular as Zaghlul, does not encourage still greater difficulties in dealing with King Fusa.

LAWN TENNIS.

FUTURE OF HARD COURTS.

Mr. Tilden's recent prophecy that the lawn tennis court of the future will be of the hard variety should be in a fair way to fulfilment if effect is given to the proposal considered by the Council of the Lawn Tennis Association in London recently. At the present time grass is the recognised surface for Davis Cup ties, and falling mutual agreement to the contrary all the must be played on grass. If the new suggestion is approved, it will mean that the hard court receives recognition. The choice of the type of court to be used as well as the make of balls will then go with priority in the draw. The proposal seems to be an eminently reasonable one. The grass court savours too much of the days when England reigned supreme in the world of lawn tennis, and her methods and traditions were the accepted guide for the rest of the world. But those days have passed. England has remained true to her tradition of the grass court, but in doing so she is in a very small minority and incidentally, the standard of her players has, in the opinion of most competent critics, suffered thereby. Apart altogether from the superiority of the hard type as an "all-weather" court, it is very much faster. The slower grass courts is attributed the failure of English players to acquire that increased speed, the lack of which is generally regarded as their chief failing at the present time. But looking at the matter from a world point of view it is eminently desirable that official recognition should be given to the fact that grass is no longer the only or even the most generally favoured surface for lawn tennis courts to-day. In some countries climatic conditions render really good grass court almost an impossibility, but the hard court is practicable anywhere.

There is a loss of between £60 and £70 a year on each rural telephone exchange, the Postmaster-General said yesterday, but the Department is opening these new exchanges at the rate of practically one a day.

SUN YAT-SEN'S AMAZING LETTER.

Yesterday we wrote that as a rule it is impossible to make any sure prediction regarding Canton's curiously involved politics. To-day we have striking proof of this truth. Dr. Sun Yat-sen has written a letter which nobody could possibly have predicted, so remarkable are some of its statements. This letter is of course the one relating to the famous "Hay" cargo. With those passages which refer to the actual arms we have little concern. Dr. Sun Yat-sen declares he is ready to acknowledge that a certain portion of the arms was purchased with funds subscribed by the Volunteers and will therefore instruct the Governor to deliver this portion. Whether, as he professes to think, the question of the arms may thus be regarded as settled, is of course a moot point, but it does not, as we have already said, concern us directly at the moment. However, what does concern us, what does concern us very much indeed is Dr. Sun Yat-sen's charge that foreigners are implicated in an "audacious plot" to overthrow the Canton Government. How does Dr. Sun Yat-sen support this amazing statement? He supports it by seeking to prove that Chan Lim-pak, former head of the Merchant Volunteers, has been flirting with the idea of making himself Mussolini of Canton, by quoting a Hongkong paper's reference to the Volunteers as "Fascist." By remarking that the plot has been discussed "even in foreign circles"; and by asserting that "certain foreigners are said to be directing Chan's scheme." These statements prove nothing beyond the fact that Sun Yat-sen must be in his dotage ever to have offered them as serious evidence that foreigners are implicated in his supposed "audacious plot."

Supposing Chan Lim-pak really has been trying to use the Volunteers to make himself Mussolini of Canton, does that prove that certain foreigners are implicated in any audacious plot whatever? Admitting that a Hongkong paper did allude to the Volunteers as Fascist, does that prove certain foreigners were directing the movement? Granting that the plot has been discussed "even in foreign circles," does that prove anything except possibly that everyone was hoping some such move would be undertaken? Then take the most definite of Dr. Sun Yat-sen's statements, that "certain foreigners are said to be directing Chan's scheme" and note how pitifully weak it is as evidence. "Certain foreigners are said"—are said; are said by whom? No, it will not do. Dr. Sun Yat-sen must think of something a little more plausible than this before he makes any further reckless charges to serve his own ends. For it is obvious that this talk of foreigners directing Chan is only an attempt to befoul the populace. Sun Yat-sen would have the people believe that Chan is a traitor, that the Volunteers have nearly been led to betray the country. Not satisfied with saying this, he must needs produce proof. What better proof of a conspiracy could he have than to discover that wicked foreigners have a hand in the game for China's undoing? After that he can take the sternest action against Chan and the populace, instead of rising in anger, will simply nod its approval. Beyond all question Dr. Sun Yat-sen's letter is sheer propaganda, his charge against "certain foreigners" a clumsy trick. Possibly he may succeed in duping the Canton masses with these wiles, but something much more definite will be required as evidence before thinking people will accept his vague statement that certain foreigners have been implicated in an "audacious plot" to overthrow the Government. The present proofs are too fanciful altogether.

Stand By Sudanese.

As indicated in this column last week, the danger as regards the situation in the Sudan lies in the natural fear that the Egyptian malcontents and the renegade Sudanese may appeal to the fanaticism of the people. A message from Khartoum, dated August 16 reads:—

Anonymous notices were posted last night in Omdurman and Khartoum, inciting against British rule, adding: We, the Sudanese intelligentsia, on behalf of the inhabitants of Sudan, declare our hatred of the British Government. Long live the cadets of the Military School! Do m with British domination! Some of the notices bear drawings of veiled Sudanese women hinting at feminine influence among the troops, and another poster says: "Unite all the sons of the Nile. This spells victory. Boycott and hate the British as religion ordained by God."

Deprived of its verbiage, the appeal is little less than incitement to a jihad. It is evident that the military authorities on the spot and the London Government are taking due precautions to cope with such an outbreak. When the representative of the Egyptian Legation called at the Foreign Office on Monday, he was told in no unambiguous terms that the British Government are determined to stand by the Sudan Government in any steps that they may deem necessary to preserve public security.

The firm attitude of the Labour Government must have come as an agreeable surprise to the Premier's detractors. On July 10, however, Mr. MacDonald stated in the House of Commons that it must be clearly understood that Britain cannot throw off its responsibility contracted to the Sudan and Sudanese by withdrawing and handing over the government of that country to any other Government.

Explaining his declaration of no withdrawal, the Prime Minister said:—

I say that in no spirit of acquisition. Our burdens are heavy. But we must stand by the people of the Sudan. We have got a moral obligation to them.

We are going to fulfil our obligations because we believe that as a result of the administration the Sudan is beginning to develop its economic resources, is beginning to feel the impetus that education like that given in the Gordon College, Khartoum, gives, and is beginning to feel something of the pride and the sentiments of people who feel that somewhere, ahead, even though far off, there is the hope that one day they will govern themselves. That is the spirit of the obligation which we should be worse than cowards if we threw off.

If the hot-heads in Egypt and the Sudan persist in their present tactics they will soon learn, as did Mexico, that the Labour Government in Britain is no easier to brow-beat than its predecessors. The British Premier, thrice during the present month has shown the world that he can "hit straight from the shoulder." The trait, under certain circumstances, is an awkward one, but generally pays in the end in that it allays suspicions of one's motives. It is most essential in the present situation in the Sudan, that the malcontents and their possible dupes should realize, before it is too late, what they will have to contend with if they "boycott and hate the British as religion ordained by Allah."

LOCAL AND GENERAL.

The French imports for the first seven months of 1924, totalled approximately 22,973,000 francs, or 33,000,000 francs, and exports 24,295,000 francs or 16,000,000 francs.

The total output from the Kallian Mining Administration's mines for the week ending August 9, was 85,195 tons of coal. (The sales during the same period amounted to 61,850 tons.)

At 1 p.m. yesterday, three men, one armed with a revolver and another with a dagger, entered 13, Cross Street, second floor, and got away with $114 which they stole from a rent collector who was calling at the house at the time.

It is hoped to form a platoon of the Scottish Company of the Hongkong Volunteer Defence Corps at Talukoo, and with this in view a meeting has been arranged for this evening, commencing at 5.30 at the Talukoo Club, under the auspices of the St. Andrews Society, for the purpose of obtaining recruits. Mr. Reid has kindly promised to take the chair.

IN JAPAN.

PASSENGERS UNDER NEW IMPORT TARIFF.

The "China Mail" has received the following from the General Agent of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company:—

Japanese Import Tariff.—We are in receipt of advice from our Yokohama Agency, to the effect that the new Japanese Import Tariff, which went into effect on August 1st, requires a duty of 100 per cent. on practically every commodity that a foreigner uses in Japan.

In order to carry out this law most concisely, the Imperial Japanese Customs at all open ports in Japan will demand declaration from each passenger disembarking from any steamer.

Passengers are requested to declare everything that would not come under the heading of personal effects, inasmuch as instructions from the Imperial Customs read as follows:—

"We will not make this inspection hard for the passengers of any steamer. Those who send in a declaration and the Inspector finds the contents of the baggage to be in accordance with the declaration, will be passed through with only a minor inspection, but passengers who do not make a declaration in accordance with the contents of their baggage will be subjected to a very severe inspection." It is imperative that in all instances passengers make the proper declaration in order that there will be no trouble or delay in disembarking at Japanese ports.

LOCAL AND GENERAL.

Four fresh cases of enteric appear in the M.O.H. returns for yesterday.

A Chinese knocked down by motor taxi No. 1273 at Connaught Road, West, was sent to the Government Civil Hospital yesterday.

Wong Kin, suffering from injuries said to have been inflicted by four men at the New Prays, Kennedy Town, has had to be removed to the Government Civil Hospital.

Mr. W. Woodward, Public Works Department, No. 3, Pratas Building, has notified the police that, between 12.30 a.m., and 6 a.m., to-day, his house was entered. Jewellery and money to the value of $181 were stolen.

A third class passenger fell overboard yesterday from the steam-launch "Kwong Ying," whilst on the way from Yau-mat to Hongkong. He was rescued by another launch. On reaching shore he was sent to hospital.

Summoned under the Offensive Trades Ordinance for carrying on a pig-roasting business in premises not suitable for the purpose, a man was fined $25 at the Magistracy yesterday, and ordered to vacate the premises within 48 hours. It was stated that the Sanitary Department had been involved in correspondence with the man on the subject for three years.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL.

Mr. C. Champlin, of the P. & O. Banking Corporation, and popular acting-commissioner of the Hongkong Boy Scouts, was a passenger by the "Kaiser-Hind" for the north.

The Peking Cabinet has decided to grant the request of Chen Luk to be allowed to resign the post of Rector to the League of Nations and will appoint Ta Chen-lin as his successor.

Warrants for the apprehension of Miss Huang Pei-lan, a university student, have been issued by the Peking Military and Police Head, charging her with being a prominent member of the Chinese Communists under the radical leader Mr. Chen Tzu-shu, and having actively propagated Bolshevism in Peking, Tientsin, and other big cities in the South.

The wedding took place at St. John's Cathedral, Hongkong, on Tuesday afternoon, of Mr. Harry A. Wendt of Manila, to Miss Julia Kipping of Carrollton, Kentucky, the marriage ceremony being performed by the Rev. V. H. Copley, M.A. Both bride and bridegroom are well-known in Manila where Mr. Wendt is the Manila representative of Wilson and Co.

A sports goods store of Glasgow, The bride, who was given away by Mr. Franklin of the U.S. Company, was charmingly attired in a silk gown from Paris. Subsequently a largely attended wedding dinner was held at the Hongkong Hotel, and later the couple left for Manila by the "Kaiser-Hind" for the north.

OPIUM SMUGGLER.

FOUR THOUSAND DOLLARS' FINE.

ONE YEAR IN DEFAULT.

Before Mr. R. E. Lindsell at the Central Magistracy, a travelling trader named Leung Yik, who came ashore from a Kongs-moon cargo junk and was arrested in Connaught Road West, was charged with being in possession of 48 tael of prepared opium, without a Government permit. A fine of $4,000 or 12 months' hard labour was imposed.

MARINE COURT.

A BUSY MORNING.

Lieutenant-Commander G. F. Hole, R.N., disposed of seven cases this morning in the Marine Court.

Leung Cheong, master of the motor boat "Cheong Lee" was fined $5 for failing to produce his license, when ordered to do so by Lance-Sergeant A. Hughes on August 13.

The master of the "Petrel" was fined a similar amount on a like charge.

Hau Yeung-on, a fitter, and Wong Fun, unemployed, pleaded guilty to being aboard the s.s. "Haag Cheong" without permission. They were each sentenced to one month's R.L.

Choung Lun, master of coolie boat 416 V, pleaded guilty to carrying 14 passengers in excess of his license. He was fined $14. Lance-Sergeant Michel prosecuted.

Falling to observe the "rule of the road," cost the master of the "Wo Kwai" ten dollars.

The master of the "Moonraker" was mulcted in a similar amount for failing to carry a certified engineer.

Tang Fu and Chang Tung charged with obstruction near Blake Pier, on August 9, by the manner in which they had moored their motor boats, were acquitted. The Magistrate remarked that the principal witness for the prosecution, P. C. Wong Kwok-tsoi, had given his evidence in a most unsatisfactory manner.

SOLICITING.

WOMAN FINED.

Before Mr. R. E. Lindsell at the Central Magistracy this morning, a woman named So Ng was charged with soliciting in the streets of Peking and "Nathur" Roads about 2.30 p.m. last night. She was found guilty and fined $40 or four weeks' hard labour in default.

MEDICAL STUDENTS.

RECENT SINGAPORE HITCH SETTLED.

RINOLADDER IS EXPELLED.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Singapore, August 20. In connection with the recent affairs at the King Edward VII Medical College here, when a hundred students refused to attend the prize-giving, the College Council has decided to expel the ringleader.

Two students have been suspended for a year, and forty-eight for six months.

HISTORY OF CASE.

It has been arranged to hold the annual distribution of diplomas at the Medical College in Sepoy Lines, on Tuesday, July 29, and invitations had been issued to many well-known residents and members of the medical profession, and the Colonial Secretary was to have presented the diplomas. Something, however, happened shortly before the ceremony, and the Singapore papers were informed that "the ceremony had been postponed," which was taken to mean the presentation of diplomas. Later it appeared that the majority of the students decided for some reason or other to boycott the annual ceremony. About 150 of the students, taking umbrage at the cancellation of one of their customary end of the term privileges, as a result of a report of misbehaviour on someone's part, decided to boycott the prize-giving, and instead of making their way to the venue of the function, spent their afternoon elsewhere. Sufficient notice of the intended action was received to allow of the prize distribution being postponed.

Subsequently the students, who took part in the boycott, signed an apology which was posted on the College notice-board.

An enquiry into the matter was held at the Government offices, conducted by Mr. M. B. Shelley and Mr. Tan Sui-bin, members of the Council of the College. The Principal, Dr. A. H. Macalister, the janitor, Mr. Street, and the students were invited to attend.

The origin of the strike was due to some alleged grievances of the students with regard to disciplinary measures, following a Students' "Rag."

CANTON PUZZLE.

WHO POSTED DOCUMENTS IN CITY?

WHAT IS REAL OPINION?

In view of the admitted hardships that the agricultural class in Kwangtung has suffered during the past few years as a result of Dr. Sun's forces continually having a scrap on hand and commandeering foodstuffs, it comes as a shock to be asked to believe that they actually still trust in the good intentions of the military under Dr. Sun. However, the world is asked to believe that the Farmers' Association of Canton is responsible for the posting of the following notice (translation) in many parts of the city. "We read."

To Arms! To Arms!

"Look at the detriment the Volunteer Corps is to our Government. We farmers ought to join hands with the labouring class to help Dr. Sun's Government."

Let us ask the Government to disband the Merchant Volunteer Corps and seriously punish the Corps Chief, Chan Lim-pak."

"Our revolutionary government was intended to reunite the North and South and put the country in order."

"We, farmers and those who have been ill-treated, should stand up and help the Government. Our present Government's object is to protect labourers and farmers, but the Merchant Volunteer Corps oppresses us—witness the fighting at Kongmoon on the first of the fifth moon, the siege of the oil association and the shooting of its members, as a result of which 31 men were wounded and 62 are missing. The bankers' association at Sui Lam, Heung Shan district, was dissolved and the members either shot or kidnapped."

"What was the object of the importation of arms into Canton by the Volunteer Corps?"

"Was it not planned to overthrow the present government? Our government has helped us farmers and labourers. Therefore we ought to render assistance in case of a rising against our government."

Disband the Volunteer Corps and punish the Corps Chief as quickly as possible! Farmers and labourers take up arms, join hands and resist our government in case of need."

Will Farmers' Mothers' Pence? A group of four women, mother, sister, and two aunts, wearing traditional Chinese dress, were seen in the streets of the city, carrying a large banner with Chinese characters on it, and were seen to be in a state of great excitement.

CRIMINAL SESSIONS.

TRIAL FOR MURDER.

NEW ASPECT TO-DAY.

The so-called Indian murder trial took on a different aspect when the hearing was continued at the Criminal Sessions this morning before Mr. Justice H. H. J. Gompertz, and a jury.

After the final evidence for the prosecution had been given, the Attorney-General, the Hon. Mr. J. H. Kemp, K.C., announced that his case was closed.

Mr. H. S. Fitzroy then gave a summary of his case before calling evidence and in it he referred to the opening statement of the Attorney-General that if a man caught his wife in the act of adultery he could not be convicted of murder, if, in the first transport of passion, he killed the wife or the other man. After tracing the events up to the day of the attack on the deceased woman, Mr. Fitzroy said that the prisoner on oath would tell the court that he found his wife committing adultery on the hillside with an Indian, whose name he would give.

Gruesome Evidence.

The morning opened with testimony not without its gruesome aspect, given by Detective Inspector Eamer who was called to give evidence by Mr. T. M. Hazlerigg, temporarily acting for the Attorney-General.

Det.-Inspector Eamer produced a chopper and in answer to Mr. Hazlerigg said that it had been bought at the shop in Morrison Street. It had been sold to an Indian chauffeur on the day of the crime. It was similar in every respect to the chopper which had been found in the nullah near the scene of the crime.

Producing a beef shin-bone, from paper wrappings, Inspector Eamer said that he had inflicted blows on it with the chopper.

Mr. Hazlerigg: It has been put to you by the defence that the jagged edge of the chopper found might have been caused through contact with wood or stone. Will you show the court the edge of the chopper which you used on the bone?

The edge of the chopper was examined and showed that many pieces had been taken out of it. These pieces were also passed to His Lordship for examination.

Mr. Hazlerigg: Did you put your full weight behind the blows?

Inspector Eamer: Not quite. Cross-examined by Mr. H. S. Fitzroy (for the defence) Inspector Eamer said that the bone was a "pretty tough" one.

Mr. Fitzroy: It is, I should say, much tougher than a human bone.

Inspector Eamer: I could not say.

Mr. Fitzroy: From its size I should say that it was very very much tougher. You are quite sure that you did not use this on a piece of stone?

Inspector Eamer: Yes.

Evidence was given by Mr. J. Arnold, Secretary of the Hongkong, Canton and Macao Steamboat Company, in whose employ the prisoner had been as a chauffeur. Mr. Arnold said that on May 22 the prisoner burst into tears and told him his wife had misadvised herself with other men. He did not mention any name. On another occasion, he told witness that she had misadvised herself with hundreds of other Indians since her marriage.

He said something about a European Sergeant-Major when he had been in the employment of H.E. the Governor as chauffeur, but did not give the man's name. Three or four weeks before prisoner's wife had been attacked, prisoner had told him that some Indians had set upon him outside the City Hall and witness informed the police. Shortly after that a car, containing three Indians, had driven up to witness's house and the occupants had demanded entrance. Witness asked them what they wanted and they said they were after his chauffeur. Witness told them that he would shoot them if they did not clear off. He went in for one of his revolvers and fired three shots into the air. The men then left in the car.

Counsel For Defence.

This closed the case for the prosecution and Mr. Fitzroy gave a summary of the lines on which his case would be conducted. He reminded the jurors of Mr. Arnold's evidence as to prisoner complaining of attacks made on him outside the City Hall. Mr. Arnold, on that occasion, had given the prisoner a truncheon and a police whistle. Defendant was of a very nervous temperament and in order further to protect himself, he purchased a chopper and carried it about with him always in the car during the day time and into his quarters at night.

To come to May 27, when prisoner took his wife and child from the hospital in the car, continued Mr. Fitzroy, prisoner was not feeling very well and so he said to his wife "I think the best thing to do would be for you to go home while I go to see a Doctor." His wife requested that she should be set down at the cemetery near the junction of Mount Davies and Jubilee Roads but prisoner drove her somewhere near the Sailors' Home and went back to the City.

He purchased four bottles of beer, and, having refreshed the inner man, he had apparently come to the conclusion that the services of a Doctor were not necessary and he decided to go home. When he arrived in the car he found that his wife was not there. He drove slowly back and turned down Jubilee Road. His attention was attracted by the sight of his little boy playing in the road. He stopped the car, went among the bushes and he would tell the court that he actually saw his wife committing adultery with an Indian. He was so enraged that he rushed to the car for his chopper. The man had run away when he returned but his wife stumbled and it appeared that prisoner had made several blows at her.

He had then rushed after the man and, failing to find him, had returned to Mr. Arnold's and given up his uniform.

Prisoner in Box.

Chau Din, the prisoner, was then put in the box and had commenced his evidence before the court adjourned. He said that on one occasion his wife had admitted to him that she had slept with a man named Sandhi Khan, who had been an unemployed chauffeur, but who had now taken prisoner's place with Mr. Arnold. She told him that they had met on the race course, gone to the pictures together and had then gone to Sandhi Khan's to drink tea where she was detained by him. She made the admission to him under pressure, prisoner said, and on condition that he would not divorce her.

On the 21st, when his wife had been missing for three days and he had found her at Mr. Khan's, he had overheard her saying to his wife, "Never mind, if he favours you I will give you $500 a month and the other $50 to my wife." Sandhi Khan had then interrupted and said "What do you want with two wives?" and he said that he would divorce her.

LAWN BOWLS.

OPEN CHAMPIONSHIP.

WIN FOR OSWICK.

One of the best games in the Lawn Bowls Open Championship was played on the Police Green yesterday evening when A. H. Oswick met and defeated E. el Arcoulli in the third round by 21 points to 17.

Oswick is regarded by many as the best No. 1 in the Colony while little is known of Arcoulli's ability in the game, but he is considered a dark horse and was generally expected to give a very good account of himself.

Both players played a very good game and it was anybody's match up till the final score. At one stage of the game Arcoulli was leading by 10-11, but then he struck a bad patch as he could only score one more point to his opponent's ten.

Oswick is to be congratulated on his victory as at one stage of the game it was thought by the majority of the spectators present that he would lose; but he rose to the occasion and won as stated by 21-17.

Y.M.C.A.

LOCAL ACTIVITIES.

The weekly organ of the Hongkong Y.M.C.A. contains the following news items:

The Twelfth Annual Kwangtung Y.M.C.A. Students' Conference will be held at Tuk Hak Tung, Canton, commencing Friday, August 22, and continuing until the 29th. Four of Hongkong's schools will be represented with 16 young men delegates and four leaders. Messrs. K. L. Tachou and J. D. Bush of Hongkong and Mr. Y. K. Woo of Shanghai will be among the speakers at the conference.

The 1924 sessions of the Hongkong Daily Vacation Bible Schools closed a successful term last Saturday. The records show that 184 volunteer teachers took charge of 1,570 regularly-attending poor boys and girls in 17 different centres in the Colony. A rally of the workers and hundreds of the students was held at the Y.M.C.A. building last Monday afternoon when an interesting programme and an exhibit was held.

A special course in the technical study of Radio Telegraphy will be conducted by Y.M.C.A. Evening School, the coming term beginning September 8. Those who wish to enroll may do so now at the office. Mr. K. Y. Mars, a practical radio expert, will be the instructor.

Several months ago an appeal was made to our Association to help some of thousands of destitute boys of Central Europe who are still suffering from the effects of the war. The members of our Junior Division have responded by recently raising the sum of $180 which is being forwarded to the National Committee to be a part of the total sum of $800 being sent to Europe from the boys of China.

Another unit of the Popular Education Movement in Hongkong will be added to those already started when the Y.M.C.A. Hostel Students School for Poor Boys begins on September 10. Our hostel men are back of this unit financially and otherwise and are bound to make it a success. It is hoped to enroll at least 100 poor boys who can neither read nor write.

FAMOUS VIOLINIST.

M. PREMYSLAV'S COMING CONCERTS.

Local music lovers will have read with considerable interest the announcement in our advertisement columns that M. Leopold Premyslav is to give a concert in the Star Theatre next week, for this famous Polish violinist is in the forefront of his profession. The London "Daily Telegraph" has described him as "supreme master of his craft and a great interpreter of great works. The Sydney "Morning Herald" has spoken of his extraordinary brilliancy and called him a "Wonderful player." The "Advocate" of India has described him as "a perfect master of technique." These are only a few of the glowing tributes that have been paid all over the world to an artist of international celebrity, an artist who has been soloist with concertos of Beethoven and Brahms in symphony concerts in Berlin, Darmstadt, and Leipzig under the direction of Richard Strauss, Felix Weingartner, and Arthur Nikisch. M. Premyslav is now touring the world and it is only through great efforts that he has been induced to give two concerts in the Colony before leaving for the North. These two concerts will be given under the patronage of H. E. the Governor and as has been said, they will represent both a musical treat and a social event of considerable importance.

S.S. "TALAMBA" LAUNCHED.

Messrs. N. and W. Hawthorn.

Little and Co., Ltd., launched from their Hebburn Shipbuilding Yard, on July 16 last, the twin-screw steamer "Talamba," building to the order of the British India Steam Navigation Co., Ltd. The "Talamba" is the last of the three vessels built at Hebburn, the steamer "Tulma" and the steamer "Tilawa" having been delivered to the owners by the builders in September, 1923, and May, 1924, respectively. The dimensions of the "Talamba" are—Length overall 492 feet, breadth 60 feet, depth 44 feet. The vessel is being built to Lloyd's 100 A1 Class, and is constructed with straight stem and elliptical stern, with complete shelter deck, together with bridge, forecastle, and boat decks. Ten 6-ton derricks are fitted, eight on derrick posts and two on fore-end of bridge, ten steam winches are provided for the rapid handling of cargo, and 26-ton derrick is fitted at the foremast for dealing with special cargo. Spacious accommodation will be provided for first and second class passengers, and in addition arrangements have been made for berthing a large number of Chinese passengers in the tween decks.

The first-class passengers will be accommodated under the bridge deck, with dining saloon, music and smoke rooms on the bridge deck, all of which will be tastefully decorated. The second-class passengers will be accommodated under the after-end of bridge deck with dining saloon immediately abaft the bridge front and smoke-room on left end of bridge deck. The captain's rooms are situated in the flying bridge, the officers and engineers being berthed in houses at the fore and after ends respectively of the boat deck. Wireless telegraph installation will be fitted, with berths for the three operators situated in the officers' house on the boat deck. Two hospitals are situated amidships in the upper tween decks. Large refrigerated chambers are situated between the main and upper decks. Mails and specie will be carried and special rooms are being fitted for this purpose. A system of thermotank ventilation is being provided for Chinese passengers' spaces.

The vessel is propelled by twin screw engines of the four-crank triple expansion direct acting surface condensing type, having cylinders 25in., 42in., 61in., 61in. by 61 in. stroke. The engines are designed throughout in accordance with the most up-to-date practice for reciprocating machinery. A very complete range of auxiliaries is fitted, including main and harbour feed, pumps by Weir, and Drysdale's independent circulating pumps. The thrust block is of the Miel patent type with enclosed lubrication. Steam is supplied by seven single-ended cylindrical boilers working at 210 lbs. pressure under Howden's latest system of forced draught. The boilers are fitted for oil burning, for which purpose duplicate pumping and heating plants are installed. The machinery is intended to develop sufficient power for a speed of 16 knots at sea.

M. KARAKHAN.

IN SLASHING ATTACK.

BOLSHEVIST MANNERS!

A Peking message to the "Daily Bulletin," dated yesterday, reads: "M. Karakhan's Note of yesterday was the subject of widespread comment in Peking to-day, the general tone of which is an expression of hope that his slashing attack is not an example of the neighbourly relations which he has promised to establish when he enters the Legation Quarter."

The "Rosta" news agency has circulated an interview with M. Karakhan in which the latter, inter alia, says that the idiosyncrasy of American diplomacy forces it to act foolishly and incorrectly as to the U.S.S.R., in which it differs widely from the American people, who are endowed with common-sense, favourably distinguishing them, even from other nations. It is no wonder that "American diplomacy in China is sensitive regarding the U.S.S.R., for here America is stronger and more acute than other Powers, and it is felt that a blow has been dealt at her policy by the straightforward policy of the U.S.S.R. Indeed, the hypocrisy and Christian hypocrisy in which the Americans have enveloped their policy in China have been fully exposed to the eyes of the Chinese people."

INDIA. RELATIONS WITH THE NEIGHBOURS.

Simla, July 8.—The complete and probably inevitable failure of the Congress Committee at Ahmedabad to come to any understanding marks a stage in this long drawn-out contest between the Indian right-wingers of discontent, from which the present position of India may usefully be reviewed. It is true that the quarrel between the followers of Gandhi and the followers of Jinnah may be regarded by many at home as merely a private difference of opinion as to the method which should be employed in attaining an end common to both, but the practical result is that the forces of sedition cease for the moment to weigh heavily in the Indian account; and times which always work on the side of reason, is once more able to contribute a badly-needed sense of perspective to the various incidents and accidents of Indian politics. In this following sketches of the situation in India her foreign relations will be considered first, and afterwards the internal differences which have complicated and embittered the task of Indian political education and advancement—perhaps prematurely—the British Empire set before itself as the natural goal of its occupation of the Peninsula. As is, of course, known to all students of recent Indian history, foreign affairs are a reserved subject. The Viceroy in Council alone is qualified to deal with them, and the fact that the Viceroy himself is technically the member of his own Council which is responsible for handling them still further reduces the danger that attends the best-intentioned interference of amateurs in this delicate sphere. That sphere, in the case of India, is, of course, limited to certain adjoining States, but the counsels of India are listened to over a far wider field, and even before India was invited to send representatives to the League of Nations and to coming European conferences, the Foreign Office in London rightly recognised the wisdom of allowing the views of the Indian Government to weigh heavily in the balance in nearly all discussions concerning Asia. That in Africa other considerations have been thrown into the scale against her is true, but that is merely evidence that the British Empire has been wise enough to avoid that semblance of duplicity which is causing such trouble here. There cannot be two diplomatic authorities in Imperial affairs.

INFLUENCE AT LHASA.

Before for the moment relations between India and her neighbours, Afghanistan, Nepal, and Tibet, will only be considered. Of these relations those which concern Afghanistan are by far the most important, and will be considered last. Of the other two, the more important at the moment are those with Tibet. Here a definite protest should at once be made against the carefully fostered idea that India is attempting to interfere in any way with the internal administration or foreign policy of Lhasa. There has never been any wavering in the steady policy that has been adopted throughout this century towards Tibet—a policy which had its origin long before the ill-considered action of Lhasa in 1900 compelled Calcutta to take steps against the hostile predominance of another European Power in the court of the Dalai Lama. India has no wish to influence Tibet; but India is equally anxious that no other Western Power shall influence Tibet. As in the case of Nepal, the Indian Government entirely agrees with the policy of seclusion which has been adopted, and earnestly endeavours to co-operate with both Katmandu and Lhasa in preventing the intrusion of unwelcome foreigners upon their territory. Moreover, so far as the struggle between Tibet and her so-called suzerain, China, is concerned India's inclination has been rather towards the maintenance of Tibet as an autonomous, and therefore, buffer State, than its absorption as a mere province of China. But that inclination—which India has never tried to disguise—has found small expression.

At the request of the Dalai Lama a telegraph line has been established between Lhasa and the Indian Frontier, and a postal service installed; but in neither case is the presence of any European required or permitted. Stories of large gifts of arms to Tibet and other interventions have been grossly exaggerated by interested parties. Finally, it is scarcely necessary to say that whenever India, without attempting to dictate to Lhasa, has been able to dissuade Tibet from the foolish policy of aggression which her nationalists have adopted along her Eastern Frontier near Batang, use has been made of the occasion. Chaos in China has naturally been Tibet's opportunity, and there is no doubt at the moment of Lhasa's effective independence of any Chinese control. China never admits that any part of Asia which has once been in actual or nominal subjection to Peking has ceased to be Chinese territory—a curious example of this is the fact that upon the map in the office of Fen-Yu-Siang the famous Christian general Burma is still included and coloured as a part of the Chinese Republic, but her rule over Tibet has ceased, and the peculiar situation thus created demands the constant attention of the Indian Government, whose benevolent neutrality in the matter cannot, however, be interpreted as the slightest diminution of her loyalty to her other neighbours.

FRIENDSHIP WITH NEPAL.

With Nepal the ties of more than a hundred years have been cemented by the recent Treaty, which in reality adds little to the perfect understanding that has long existed between us. A phrase will perhaps explain the situation better than the longest exposition. A few days ago a distinguished official in the Foreign Office here was asked what the policy of the Indian Government towards Nepal was. His reply deserves to be recorded and remembered: "We have no policy towards Nepal; we have only friendship." It is therefore unnecessary to dilate further upon the effect of the recent Treaty than to say that thereby the full independent status of Nepal, which had long been recognised by the Indian Government, receives final confirmation. Ill-informed writers on Indian affairs still occasionally refer to Nepal as though in some way India were still responsible for either the external or internal policy of a State as free and sovereign as Switzerland.

Readers have no need to be told that Nepal has resolutely shut her gates against the idle curiosity of Europeans. She has availed herself freely of their inventions so far as they can assist in the development of this remote and almost unknown kingdom, but she has refused to allow her riches to be exploited or her solitudes to be invaded by any stranger. At rare intervals an individual exception is made to this policy of exclusion, but the number of living Europeans who have been to Lhasa is considerably greater than that of those who have ever seen the white domes and golden roofs and pinnacles of Katmandu. In this policy of seclusion the Indian Government unhesitatingly supports Nepal, and there is probably in the whole field of international relations no other example of a perfect understanding between two States like that which is afforded by the traditional friendship between India and Nepal—a friendship which on the side of the latter is best illustrated by the spontaneous and wholehearted manner in which the mountain kingdom came to our assistance during the Great War, and afterwards, exhausted as she was during the military aberration which brought about the third Afghan War.

Except for the open disagreement between the two Grand Lamas of Tibet—a quarrel which has resulted in the flight of the Tashi Lama from Tashilhunpo and the temporary disorganisation of the administration of his territory—there is little along the northern frontier of India which calls for anxiety. The Indian Government remains in friendly relations with all her neighbours, though the Burmese border is from time to time the subject of a certain amount of correspondence. Internal trends in Afghanistan, Tibet, and China have affected some old misunderstandings, but the all-time question of readjustment is being approached in a reasonable and friendly way. There has been no weakening of the Anglo-Tibetan position, even in the case of Afghanistan, though

IMPRESSIONS OF MAN FROM JAPAN.

The following amusing sketch is taken from the "Glasgow Weekly Herald":

We have to introduce to our readers a gentleman of the Far East whose place in the regard of his fellow-countrymen is much higher than his name suggests. He has temporarily forsaken his native Japan in order to "do" Wembley, and he also intends to find time for a tour of Britain and the Continent. It is his desire to convey to the public his impressions of the places he has visited, and incidentally to achieve the qualified immortality of seeing his name in real British print. We have so far signified to his blandishments as to allow the publication of his first communication. Let him speak for himself:

Honourable public readers. You should please direct your attention to the undersigned observations of a visitor to your fair country. I am but one week arrived in England, but am already in state of astounding familiarity with great British institutions, Post Office, music halls, etc., and owing to excellent command of language have no difficulty in peregrinating from place to place.

For two days I have visited Wembley, conveying me there by underground chariot—at great speeds. On my attempt to insert myself at gate (admissions one and six-pennies) I am prostrated to find myself without river money, but honourable gentleman near entrance sell me two bundles of half a crown, ten silver pieces in all, for but two paper pounds, which is very convenient indeed. Two more gentlemen say he has sell me a pup, but have no record of same, only the half a crown.

On issuing forth into Exhibition I am impressed by the large majorities of the populace in presence, also Americans. I foregather with a congregation of said Americans, but honourable gentlemen are not fluid in English talk, and one observe "Hullygeewadon-souwanaknow?" Owing to lamentable ignorance of Latin I am unable to make suitable replies. I am presently possess myself of working model of Felix cat, same climbing stick for three-pence all wrapped up nicely. Him I give to waiter of eating booth or chop house further on in lieu of monetary presentation, having no small coins. He is too-overcome with gratitude to emit salutations, and hurries off no doubt to demonstrate imitation Felix cat to colleagues.

In course I betake myself to the amusement park, where is assembled a colossal number of entertainment machines. On payment of small moneys I enter the horse-back railway, and am precipitated at huge speeds down fearsome inclines. I now regret my rashness in entering upon the adventure, for the fluctuations of the devil-carriage in which I ride are quick to disturb my previous arrangements at the eating booth, and presently I have fears for my internal economy. Memo. I should not eat pawns in aspic before embarking on horseback railways.

Having alit myself in a state of paroxysm from the railway, I emanate forth to the roundabouts, where I find three Scotchmen. I inquire of them the prudence of venturing upon the honourable contemplation, and am informed that the whigmalarie is not safe. Am unable to state, however, why that should prevent me from pleasuring myself on the roundabout, as had not contemplated visiting whigmalarie or other live exhibits. A creature may have broken loose and may chance to be prowling near, however, betake myself therefrom.

From gentleman of distended waistcoat I obtain coupons permitting me to enter myself to the Rodeo ceremonies by cow gentlemen from America. Am primed with excitement at spectacle of so many people gathered to witness tournament. After some passages of time certain judges and gentlemen emerge themselves from a side entrance, and perambulate the arena on sundry horses. After customary grovelling from ring-master, the honourable steers are announced, but premature entry of said animals causes some confusion among tenants of arena, who hastily exit themselves. Cow gentlemen try to hang the wily steers with long make-ropes, but same are having none, and make well-timed evasions. The cow gentlemen then proceed to personal argument with steers, and come to blows, in which sometimes steers blows first, with calamitous calculations for said cow gentlemen. Friendly overtures are restored, however, and the public makes disappointed withdrawal to American public bar in search of real excitement.

Kindly to note which disclosures must suffice themselves for the moment as the honourable editor declares I have been too extensive of the wind for the present.

This kingdom presents problems of some difficulty that are to be found elsewhere.

NIGHT CLUB FINES.

RECORD OF WOMAN PROPRIETOR.

London, July 24.—A woman proprietor's remarkable record of night club fines was disclosed by Mr. Musket yesterday when he appeared for the Commissioner of Police in what he described as a case concerning "one of the worst class of night clubs."

He was supporting before the Bow-street Police Court magistrate summonses against Mrs. Kate Evelyn Merrick, Walter Frank Bertie, and Leicester Gardiner, secretary, for selling intoxicating liquor without a licence and after permitted hours at Fractor's Club, Gerard-street, Soho, W.

Mr. Musket said the club was supposed to be run by a company called the Forty-three Club, Ltd., but he regarded that concern as a bogus company, registered solely to try to evade the licensing laws.

On June 25 Police Constable Coote was admitted to the club at midnight by Mrs. Merrick on payment of 7s. 6d.

DRINKING TILL 3 A.M.

In the basement dancing-room he was introduced to a dancing instructor, for whom he purchased drinks. Intoxicants were served up to 3 a.m. The charge made for a bottle of champagne was 35s. On leaving the constable paid the instructor 30s. and gave her a 10s. tip.

The club was raided early on July 4, when about 50 persons were present, two of them being drunk.

Mrs. Merrick held the premises on a seven years' lease at £650 a year, and sub-let them to the company at £20 a week. Mr. Bertie was a builder of Hanway-street.

Mr. Musket added that this establishment had caused much trouble to the police for many years. It had been run by Mrs. Merrick as the "Forty-three" Club, but ultimately a company was formed, doubtless with the object of trying to relieve her of responsibility and diverting suspicion from herself. Mr. Musket detailed the following fines imposed upon her:

January 1920, £25 for permitting women of ill-repute to frequent Dalton's Club, Leicester-square.

February 1922, £250 and £35 costs for illegal sales of liquor at the "Forty-three" Club.

May, 1922, £100 for permitting dancing without a licence at the "Forty-three" Club.

May 1923, £90 and £31 costs for supplying intoxicants after hours at the Folie Bergere Club.

August last, £450 and £40 costs for a similar offence at the Folie Bergere Club.

The total fines and costs imposed on her in connection with night clubs in the West End amounted, said Mr. Musket, to more than £1,000.

£400 PENALTIES.

Mr. Walter Frampton, who defended, urged that there was no evidence of selling intoxicants against Mrs. Merrick, as she was not present. Mr. Bertie became a director of the club to have some security for money owing to him by Mrs. Merrick for work done.

Mr. Graham Campbell, the magistrate, said that if Mrs. Merrick was convicted before him on a similar charge again he would send her to prison. He ordered her to pay fines amounting to £350 and £10 costs; Mr. Bertie £100 and 35 guineas costs; and Mr. Gardiner £40.

Fines of from 40s. to £5 were imposed on five persons for illegally consuming drink in the club. Capt. Henry Saville, of Priory-road, Hornsey; James Erskine Harper, barrister, of Lincoln-street, Chelsea; and John Duncan Laird, Victoria-street, S.W., were each fined £5. Charles Gardiner, floor manager of the club, £3; and Violet Kaplin, professional dancer, 40s.

Notice of appeal was given on behalf of Mrs. Merrick.

An order was made for the club to be struck off the register and the premises to be disqualified for use as a club for twelve months.

SLAKE STORY.

STOLEN WHILE HIS BROTHERS SLEPT.

A few weeks ago, Kowloon surprised the world by a story of a centipede, which, it was alleged, made such a noise moving across the floor of an upper room that a man below mistook the noise for mice scampering across the floor. From Hamburg comes the story of snakes that slept while their brother was stolen. A message, dated August 11, reads:—The largest bronze snake in Germany, which occupied a prominent place in Carl Hagenbeck's animal farm near Hamburg, was stolen recently by thieves who, the police said, would probably sell the statue for old metal. The bronze snake stood on a pedestal in the centre of the snake yard, which is a kind of jungle, so that the inhabitants might be reminded of their native haunts and feel perfectly at home.

The management believed that the snakes were better than watch dogs to guard this valuable piece of statuary, but the thieves apparently had no fear of the thousands of reptiles within the enclosure, and escaped with their loot without anything more than being hissed at.

JAPAN'S LOAN.

PARTICULARS OF NEW FLOTATION.

The following supplementary details of the Japanese Government loan are now available for publication.—A syndicate, headed by the National City Bank of New York, with which the International Banking Corporation is affiliated, offers to the public a Japanese Government loan to the extent of U.S. $22,000,000 at 9½% to yield better than 6 per cent. per annum. The Japanese Government undertake to repay this loan to any bona fide holder, in time of war as well as in time of peace, irrespective of the nationality of the holder. Loans issued in the United States are not subject to American taxation when held by non-resident aliens. In view of the present favourable American exchange this loan should prove attractive to foreign investors and the International Banking Corporation will transmit all applications free of charge.

TO-DAY'S ADVERTISEMENTS.

THE CHINESE EASTERN RAILWAY. ITS POLITICAL, STRATEGIC & COMMERCIAL IMPORTANCE.

RIVAL INTERNATIONAL INTERESTS.

Mr. David Fraser, the Peking correspondent of "The Times," writing under date of July 28, sends the following article on the Chinese Eastern Railway to the British Chamber of Commerce "Journal" in Shanghai.

Recent Events.

Under the new control matters began to improve, but in 1920 China suspended the operation of all Russian treaties and announced the intention of taking over the railway. This brought the Russo-Asiatic Bank into the field on the ground that the line was private property and not Russian State property. France supported the Bank informally, being interested because 60 per cent. of the shares of the Bank was held by French subjects. After a period of discussion it was arranged between the Chinese Government and the Bank that the former was to assume Supreme administrative control through a Board of which five members were to be Chinese and five Russian, but that management of the line was to be left to the Russian staff as heretofore. It was declared that the railway was to be operated as a purely commercial concern and politics entirely debarred. The Chinese therefore recognized the claims of the Bank, and under the new arrangement the railway once more began to prosper under the efficient management of Mr. Ostrumoff, a Russian railway expert of wide experience. The Chinese in various ways, however, have impeded the most advantageous operation of the line, and have contrived to run up a debit balance of $20,000,000, which they owe the railway and cannot pay. France also owes a large sum for costs incurred in the evacuation of the Czechs. On the other hand, the railway owes the United States, Japan and others for loans through the Inter-Allied Board, which have given the Powers in question an interest as creditors.

The ambiguous position of the C.E.R. and the conflicting interests in it led the Washington Conference to a pronouncement on the subject. Two resolutions were passed, one of which reads:—"The Powers other than China. . . reserve the right to insist hereafter upon the responsibility of China for performance or non-performance of the obligations towards the foreign stockholders, bondholders and creditors of the Chinese Eastern Railway which the Powers deem to result from the contracts under which the railway was built, etc., etc." These words and others in the Resolutions indicate recognition of China's control of the railway as provisional, and as debarring her from any disposition of the property incompatible with the interests of those concerned.

Present Position.

Finally we came to the Karakhan Agreement and the accompanying Declaration signed on May 31 of the present year. In these documents China totally ignores the position of the Russo-Asiatic Bank, established by the original contract and recognized by herself in the agreement of 1920. She admits the claim of the Soviet Government as proprietor and accepts the opportunity to redeem the line by payment to the Soviet Government, thereby nullifying her own policy of denying to any foreign Government the right of railway ownership in her territory. She also ignores the Washington Resolutions, by assuming the right to dispose of the railway without reference to the claims of other interested. In consequence both the United States and France have asked for explanations. Meanwhile the Conference which shall discuss in detail the points settled in principle in the Karakhan Agreement has not met, although more than the stipulated period of one month has elapsed. Nor has the Soviet Government ratified the Agreement, probably in part due to Chang Tso-lin's opposition, and partly to the prospect that international complication may arise out of it.

Conflicting Interests.

It is hardly necessary, in conclusion, to emphasize the immense value of the C.E.R. as a political, strategic and commercial asset, of extraordinary interest directly to Russia and China and indirectly to Japan. To Russia the railway is of extreme importance as giving direct access to Vladivostok, now her only outlet on the Pacific. In crossing Manchuria the railway traverses great granary land the productivity of which is incalculable. With the C.E.R. behind it Vladivostok is destined to rival the biggest ports in the world. On the other hand, if lost to Russia, much of the produce of North Manchuria would gravitate southward, to the benefit of the Japanese railway and port of Dairen. North Manchuria in fact is a commercial gold mine to which the railway is the key. From a military point of view the railway is also the key to Vladivostok, for by its means in time of war Vladivostok can be directly reinforced and supplied. But in the hands of an enemy the railway would make Vladivostok almost indefensible, as facilitating an attack from the rear and threatening communications by way of the Amur-Ussuri route.

China's interest of course is manifest. The railway is on her soil and taps territory populated by her own people, whose presence and labour are daily increasing the economic value of Manchuria. China has the multi interest of being sole master in this rich area, of holding the railway as a trade distributor and as a means of defence against Russia who is ever to be feared whether Tsarist or Bolshevik. She has particularly the interest to recover her position in North Manchuria, lost the Power now established in South Manchuria should cut her off entirely from her territory in the north. But full possession and control by a weak Power like China cannot possibly suit Russia, as China in time of war can be thrust aside and the railway used to threaten Transbaikalia and the maritime provinces.

Japan's Interest.

Japan's interest is indirect but none the less keen and urgent. Japan came into Manchuria in defence of Korea and her calculations can never ignore the possibility that Russia some day may be strong enough to seek to reverse the defeat of 1904-5. South Manchuria is her first line of defence against Russia, and what lies beyond it is of vital importance to her. Her position in South Manchuria is a great economic asset to her, and she has laid claim to a special position in Eastern Inner Mongolia where she is building railways. In view of the events of the past twenty years it is only natural that Japan should contemplate expansion into the wealthy area to the north, when opportunity offers, as a possibility of the future. With Russia firmly established on the C.E.R. the way is barred. But with China in control, China as she is to be seen disintegrating day by day, the prey of weak and foolish military commander blind to the consequences of their vain rivalries, there is always hope for Japan. Obviously Japan is interested in seeing Russia ousted from North Manchuria, and in having China established there is possession of something that hereafter she may not be strong enough to hold. Chang Tso-lin, meanwhile, refuses to acknowledge the Karakhan Agreement, because he knows that China can never find the price to redeem the railway and that the real control must revert to Russia. His policy is to retain the mastery of the line himself, and to keep Russia entirely out of North Manchuria. It would be of extreme interest if we could know how far Japan is prepared to support him in this line of action.

ARMS ON "HAV."

DR. SUN REACHES DECISION.

A CURIOUS DOCUMENT.

The "Canton Gazette" of yesterday contains the following translation of a dispatch from Generalissimo Sun to the leaders of the Merchant Volunteer Corps. In many ways it is a curious document, especially when read in conjunction with the permit to import arms granted to Mr. Chan Lim-pak, a facsimile of which appeared in Tuesday's "China Mail." The dispatch from Dr. Sun reads: "Gentlemen of the Merchant Volunteer Corps: The Government is ready to acknowledge that a certain portion of the arms smuggled by Chan Lim-pak was purchased with funds subscribed by you; it will therefore instruct the Governor to deliver the same to you in accordance with the regulations for the acquisition of arms by the Citizen Volunteers. As the question of your arms may be regarded as settled."

There are, however, two matters in the solution of which your assistance is needed by the Government. Through the Merchant Volunteer Corps itself and other sources an audacious plot has recently been discovered in which Chan Lim-pak planned to use the Merchant Volunteer Forces to overthrow the Government and follow in the footsteps of Mussolini in Italy. This has been reported in the foreign press—of Hongkong, Shanghai and Tientsin, in the last month or two. Only a few days ago, Chan Lim-pak inspired the publication of an editorial comment in a certain English newspaper in Hongkong attacking this Government and praising the Merchant Volunteers, who were referred to as the Fascists of Canton. (The Fascists are a capitalistic reactionary party in Italy). Even in foreign circles the subject of Chan Lim-pak's rebellious plot is discussed. Certain foreigners are said to be directing Chan's scheme. August 14 was chosen for the coup when this Government was to have been overthrown and replaced by Chan Lim-pak as Tschun of Kwangtung, to be followed by the cancellation of our independence and surrender to the North. Chan has recently, as is well known to both Chinese and foreigner, sent his representatives to Jooyang to establish connections with Wu Pei-fu in the name of the Merchant Volunteers. Furthermore the arrogant tone of the congratulatory couplets posted on the pillars erected for the recent anniversary celebrations of the Merchant Volunteers amounts to a confession of this rebellious attitude. Such open conspiracy indicates the treasonable attitude of Chan Lim-pak towards the Government. But this Government, wishing to be lenient and indulgent, will not adopt severe and incriminating measures. Consequently, with the sole exception of Chan Lim-pak, it will deal with the matter in two ways:—

(a) In the case of those who were his accomplices but are now repentant and willing to confess their complicity, the Government will overlook the past and refrain from prosecution.

(b) As to those who are still impenitent and continue plotting, the Government will expect you to point out and deliver them over for punishment. It is my belief that the great majority of you are sane, right-minded men, and loyal to the Republic, who will not tolerate bad characters within your organization and permit them to utilise it in conspiracies against the Government. This is a matter of such grave concern to the Republic and to the Revolutionary cause that I am determined to have a thorough investigation made into it. I trust that you will render substantial assistance to the Government in the elimination of traitors so as to enable the Merchant Volunteers and the Government to work hand in hand in the defence of our hearth and home and in the extermination of truculent militarists. In such a case, I shall look to you as a pillar of support and place in you unreserved confidence. This will be not only of benefit to the Merchant Volunteers but will be a blessing to the Republic.

MURDER CHARGE.

AGED WOMAN BEFORE COURT.

Tam Sam, living at No. 16, Heung Hing Lane, charged with the murder of her adopted daughter on July 16, was brought up for trial before Mr. R. E. Lind-sell, at the Central Magistracy, yesterday afternoon.

Mr. N. H. B. Nihil, acting Crown Solicitor, conducted the case and Mr. A. E. Hall defended. Surgeon-Lieut. Commr. F. C. Hunot, Medical Officer-in-Charge of Victoria Mortuary, stated that he examined the dead body of a Chinese female named Chu Kam-hol, aged about 17 years, on July 16. In his opinion the cause of death was hemorrhage, due to a wound 1½ in. long and ¾ in. deep on the outside of the right thigh. Artery and large veins were severed. The wound could have been self-inflicted or caused by the knife produced in Court. The wound must have been caused by a stab of considerable force. The wound might have been inflicted if the person had fallen on the point of a knife.

The general condition of the body was quite healthy. He found a stain of blood on the right thumb. The examination was held in the presence of Inspector Eerner, two police constables and Chu Lu, father of deceased. There was nothing on the wound to stop the bleeding. The wound could not have been caused by falling on a nail in the floor.

Dr. Fitzroy Williams, Acting Government Bacteriologist, stated that on July 22 certain articles were sent to him for examination. He found blood on one jacket, on a knife and a faint stain on the trousers. All were tested for reaction of human blood with negative result. He returned the articles to the police the same day under lock and key. He could not say whether the blood on the knife came from the same source as the blood on the trousers. It is quite possible that the wound might have been cleaned by some one before he saw it.

Finding The Body.

Chu Lu, shop coolie employed in Tsui Tak-lung shop, No. 26, Des Voeux Road West, stated that he had kept defendant for seven or eight years as a concubine living at No. 16, Heung Hing Lane, first floor. He mostly slept in the shop and seldom slept with defendant, because she was fond of wine and when drunk often threw things at him. A boy named Chu Wing and a girl named Chu Kam-ling are his "bought" children. On the night of July 16 about dark Chu Kam-ling came to his shop and made a report to him about her sister being dead. In consequence of this he went home. On entering he saw defendant in the kitchen holding a piece of black cloth as if she was washing it and then went to the door of the cubicle, looked inside and saw Chu Kam-hol lying on the floor with her head on one side, jacket on, no trousers. He felt her head and it was still warm. He heard a gurgling noise in her throat, and saw blood on the floor. He took a light and examined the wounds. Defendant was standing outside the cubicle door then. He asked her how the girl came in that condition. She replied that she threw a glass soy-dish at deceased. Seeing the wound still bleeding, he went out for some medicine. On returning he heard a hubbub and was told that the girl was dead. He was advised to go away.

The case was adjourned until to-morrow.

to the people of Kwangtung. The Government has high expectations of you.

I hereby appoint my secretaries Lam Chik-mun and Lin Shing-hoi and my A.D.C. Tang Yin-wah as Government representatives to discuss with you the above two questions. If, as is hoped, all doubts and suspicions regarding the loyalty of the Merchant Volunteers towards the Government can henceforth be removed, then it will not be necessary to station troops at Canton and Fatsien for precautionary purposes, and citizens will be able to live and pursue their occupations in peace and prosperity.

I leave the matter in your hands. (Signed) Sun Yat-sen Canton, 19 August, 1924.

BUT WIDOW LOSES.

London, July 10:—Tall and dark and dressed in a simple black costume and black hat, Mrs. Frances Mendham, an American widow, 35 years of age, who is claiming £25,000 for breach of promise from Robert Lebaudy, the son of Jules Lebaudy, the French sugar refiner, who died in 1889, leaving £13,000,000, gave evidence to-day to the effect that she had lived under Lebaudy's protection, receiving an allowance of £400 a month.

She denied that she had been his mistress, and declared that she had never stayed under the same roof, but intimate relations had existed between them. Marriage had been arranged, but it had been postponed when Robert's elder brother Jacques, an adventurer, known at one time as "the Emperor of the Sahara," was shot in America, in 1910, by his wife, who was acquitted on a charge of murder.

Counsel for the defence, in the course of his cross-examination, indicated that the contention, of the defence was that the action was in the nature of blackmail. He suggested that Lebaudy never made plaintiff an allowance, but only gave her small presents, of which the total value was £250.

Counsel closely questioned Mrs. Mendham regarding her contention that Lebaudy, when promising marriage, persuaded her to abandon litigation which she had undertaken regarding her deceased husband's valuable and estate in America, for which she was now claiming £15,000 as part of the damages in the present suit.

Counsel produced records from American courts showing that the estate in question had been insolvent, and that Mrs. Mendham, after taking money and jewellery from it without accounting therefor, had been removed by the court from administration of the estate.

The Chief Justice, reading one of Debaudy's brief unsigned notes asking Mrs. Mendham to dinner, said he could hardly conceive anything less sentimental since the chops and tomato sauce incident in the Pickwick case.

The jury stopped the case and returned a verdict for Debaudy. The Chief Justice said he would consider the matter of sending the papers in the case to the Public Prosecutor.

It was Mr. Pickwick's innocent note ordering "chops and tomato sauce" that caused him so much trouble in the famous breach of promise suit. Mrs. Bardell's counsel argued subtly that "tomato sauce" was nothing less than a declaration of the warmth of Mr. Pickwick's feelings.
